On a floating junkyard beneath a radiation sky, a deadly secret lies buried in the scrap.

Eve isnâ€™t looking for secretsâ€”sheâ€™s too busy looking over her shoulder. The robot gladiator sheâ€™s just spent six months building has been reduced to a smoking wreck, and the only thing keeping her Grandpa from the grave was the fistful of credits she just lost to the bookies. To top it off, sheâ€™s discovered she can destroy electronics with the power of her mind, and the puritanical Brotherhood are building a coffin her size. If sheâ€™s ever had a worse day, Eve canâ€™t remember it.

But when Eve discovers the ruins of an android boy named Ezekiel in the scrap pile she calls home, her entire world comes crashing down. With her best friend Lemon Fresh and her robotic conscience, Cricket, in tow, she and Ezekiel will trek across deserts of irradiated glass, infiltrate towering megacities and scour the graveyard of humanityâ€™s greatest folly to save the ones Eve loves, and learn the dark secrets of her past.

Even if those secrets were better off staying buried.

Lifel1k3 Q&A with Jay Kristoff A very big thank you to Jay Kristoff for joining me on my channel for this mini interview of Lifel1k3! LIFEL1K3 LAUNCH VLOG: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=...> Lifel1k3 (Jay Kristoff) - Enjoyable! Disappointing?? My review of LifeL1k3, the post-apocalyptic sci-fi by Jay Kristoff. An enjoyable sci-fi, that was a little lacking in 'sci', and didn't live up to my expectation based on having read Nevernight.
